

Almond nuts over walkabout

Reprinted from Los Altos Town Crier Article published on March 17, 2004

From left, Nick Eyre, Andrew Templeton and Paul Dilley have fun with Bob the Dummy, during festivities for Almond School's annual "walkabout" fund-raiser on March 6. Participants - 85.5 percent of the Almond student body - raised a record $39,000 for the Almond PTA. Almond supporters also are donating a portion of the proceeds to the East Palo Alto Kids Foundation. "A great success all around," beamed Almond parent Laura Roberts, also a member of the EPA Kids Foundation. Bob is a mascot of the 5th grade boys at Almond and visits each of their families in turn. He joins in on birthday parties and holidays - always dressed appropriately.

